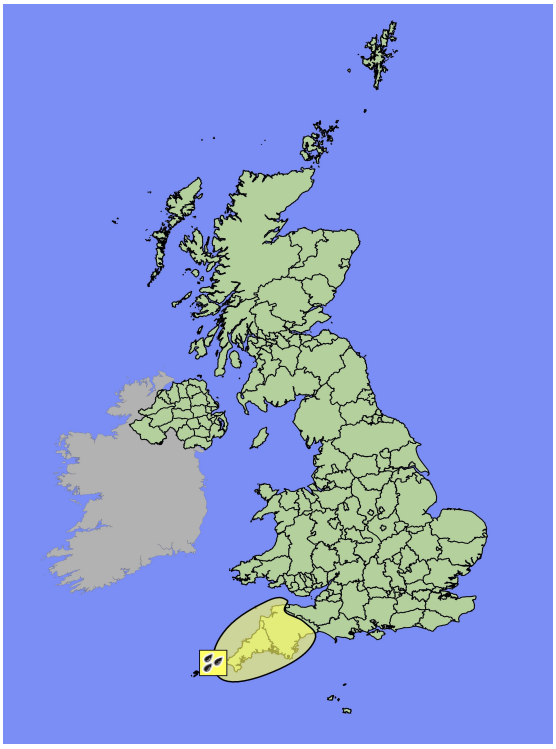
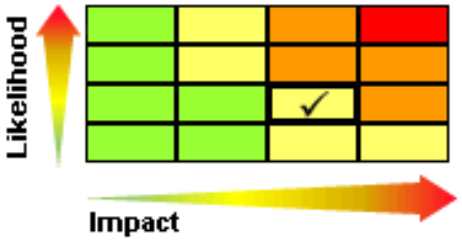
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A fairly active frontal system will move quickly eastwards across the UK on Monday bringing most regions a spell of wet and windy weather for a few hours. Southwestern England is likely to be affected by some of the heaviest and most persistent rain with accumulations of 20 or 30 mm possible over higher ground, most of this falling within six hours.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Alert of Rain

Valid from 10:00 on Mon, 28th Jan 2013 until 17:00 on Mon, 28th Jan 2013

A spell of heavy rain will affect southwestern England during the late morning and afternoon on Monday. Given saturated ground, the public should be aware that further localised flooding and disruption to travel is likely.
